From the Presidents' Pens:

Attending state and national conventions energizes me, gives me ideas for future branch programs, and reminds me why I joined AAUW—to meet individuals who are committed to making a difference by addressing issues important to women.

Char Rusnak, former NATO Senior Gender Advisor, spoke about comfort zones and pushing yourself to move out of yours, try something new and take a risk. The benefits can be enormous. Over time, we all become comfortable doing what we have always done and that gives our lives a routine and predictability that we seem to need. But do we stop growing when that happens? Do we end up saying “Is that all there is?”

Google “comfort zone and taking risks” and this is what you’ll read: “There is no room for adventure and excitement in your comfort zone;” perhaps now is the time to get that excitement back and find ways to step out of your comfort zone. You can stretch yourself by taking on new challenges, by learning something new, and by deciding to work for change. It’s not only young people who can change the world; as AAUW members, we can too.

Pick your issue, step out, and let’s work together. Excitement and adventure await us!

Tidbits from the AAUW-PA Convention

While at the convention, our state social media chair helped me set up a Facebook page as a way to increase our branch visibility. Be sure to visit the page and “like” and “follow” it. And then check periodically for updates on branch activities. This is one more way we are entering the digital age.

Following in national’s footsteps, AAUW-PA instituted an all member online voting procedure. That meant that every AAUW member in Pennsylvania could vote for state officers, even if they were not attending the convention. That is a big difference from several years ago when a member had to be present to vote. Voting is so important that I am surprised by how few AAUW members voted in any of the three ways possible—online, mail in ballot and in person. There were only 92 online votes and 111 paper ballots.

AAUW-PA 85th Annual State Meeting

Gettysburg, PA, April 11 – 13, 2014

The Easton & Bethlehem car pool, under the direction of Rosemary Baker, got an early start when they met at the Park & Ride on William Penn Highway on Friday morning. The plan was to arrive in Gettysburg in time to do some sightseeing. After checking in at the Wyndham Hotel, we headed into Gettysburg for a delicious lunch of crab cake sandwiches and fries. Next stop was the Gettysburg National Military Park Museum and Visitor Center. There we saw the restored Gettysburg Cyclorama, the film, “New Birth of Freedom” and toured the museum. Friday night, the beginning of the AAUW-PA convention, was a low key event with a meet & greet of old and new friends, a town hall meeting and a national update by Julia Brown, AAUW Nat’l VP.

Saturday was busy with the usual meetings, speakers, updates and panels. All were interesting, but several were outstanding. Char Rusnak, former NATO Senior Gender Advisor, kept us glued to our seats as she presented her personal perspectives on Afghanistan. An interesting side event was the burqa that floated around later in the day. Of course, one knew that there was a woman underneath all that material; but being covered from head to toe, including the eyes does not let much, if any, of the person come through. A presentation on STEM initiatives was done by AAUW West Chester-Chester. They have developed a new program, Parents- Educators Exploring Tomorrow’s Technology (PETT), which provides parents and educators with resources to help create a supportive, nurturing environment for girls in grades 6-12 who are interested in STEM.

PETT expands upon the one-day girls Stem event Girls Exploring Tomorrow’s Technology (GETT) held every March in Chester County for girls in grades 6-12. What an exciting program! Session III featured a College Student Panel which discussed AAUW college campus programs. Their enthusiasm and passion came through in each presentation. Janet Gillespie from Lafayette was one of the speakers.

Saturday night ended with an interesting talk by Jill Oglie Titus, Associate Director Civil War Institute, Gettysburg College, on The Cold War & Civil Rights Movement in Gettysburg. It made all of us stop and think about what has happened in the past, how far we have come, yet how far we need still need to travel for equality for all.

Sunday morning saw the presentation of Branch and AAUW Funds Awards. It was nice to hear our Easton Branch mentioned. At the end of the annual meeting, the E & B carpool loaded up and was ready to hit the road. But first we had one more stop. After getting lost in Gettysburg, which is not a big town, we found Seminary Ridge Avenue and started our auto tour of the battlefield. Our trip to the cyclorama and museum had been time well spent since it helped us understand the three days of combat when we toured the battlefield.

Our excursion completed—it was time to head home.

I'm happy to announce my new position as Lehigh Valley Regional Coordinator for Pre-K for PA. The Pre-K for PA issue campaign is working to ensure that all Pennsylvania children are ready to succeed. Our vision is that every 3- and 4-year-old in the commonwealth has access to high-quality pre-kindergarten.

Access to high-quality pre-k gives all children the opportunity to learn, strengthens our schools and communities. The campaign is nonpartisan: we neither support nor oppose candidates.

I want to ask your help in joining us to grow the campaign.

Pre-K for PA invites citizens, parents, educators, as well as business and community leaders to join us in making high-quality pre-k a visible issue during this critical election year and beyond. We will be a regular source for pre-k information and will conduct outreach in the local community, at public forums, and in the media to spread the word.

This initiative was launched by a statewide coalition including: Delaware Valley Association for the Education of Young Children, Economy League of Greater Philadelphia, Fight Crime: Invest in Kids, Mission: Readiness, Pennsylvania Association for the Education of Young Children, Pennsylvania Head Start Association, Pennsylvania Partnerships for Children, Pittsburgh Area Association for the Education of Young Children, Public Citizens for Children and Youth, and United Way of Greater Philadelphia and Southern New Jersey.
